-- eGistics and Global 360 Form Strategic Alliance for Hosted Delivery --

DALLAS, May 20, 2009 -- eGistics, Inc. today announced that it has formed a strategic business alliance with Global 360, Inc., a leading provider of Process and Document Management solutions. The partnership will enable Global 360 to provide a secure, hosted enterprise Software-as-a-Service (SaaS) delivery environment for Global 360 applications and to offer long-term hosted storage in eGistics' secure, Tier 4 data centers.

With more than two decades of experience, Global 360 has developed an award-winning suite of solutions that allow organizations to improve business performance by maximizing the productivity of all participants in a process. Through a seamless integration of eGistics' hosted document management environment with Global 360's applications, the companies will deliver solutions that help optimize business and document processing and provide long-term hosted storage of business content.

The partnership also gives Global 360 users a choice of traditional on-premise and hosted delivery models, helping them further maximize their IT investments and productivity as they migrate to Process and Document Management solutions. eGistics clients typically enjoy the advantages of rapid deployment of solutions, at a compelling price-to-value ratio, and delivered with minimal or no capital expenditure for equipment. Global 360 expects the partnership to increase adoption of its solutions.

As part of today's announcement, eGistics will participate in Global 360's BPMLive event on May 28 at the Rosewood Mansion on Turtle Creek in Dallas. BPMLive brings together Global 360 customers, partners, executives and product experts for a full day of learning and networking.

"This is an important strategic relationship for eGistics, and we are very happy to become a trusted business ally of a leading BPM solutions provider such as Global 360," said eGistics Chairman and CEO Bob Lund. "For end-users, a flexible, cost-efficient, and reliable document management environment is key in today's content-driven world. Global 360's products, combined with the eGistics hosted environment, are well positioned to meet these needs."

"This partnership recognizes the strengths of Global 360 and eGistics in our markets and it gives our customers a proven and cost-efficient path to implementing hosted Process and Document Management solutions," said Global 360 CEO David Mitchell. "For organizations that want to be successful with hosted Process and Document Management offerings, Global 360 and eGistics are the first major technology vendors to deliver the platform, products and expertise that will address their challenges and help ensure success."
