eGistics and Direct Insite Form Strategic Partnership to Deliver End-to-End Solution for Healthcare Payables

DALLAS, September 16, 2010 -- eGistics, a leading provider of hosted document management solutions, and Direct Insite, a global provider of financial supply chain automation solutions, today announced that the companies have formed a strategic partnership. As part of today's announcement, the companies announced that they are integrating their solutions to offer a modular platform that automates the healthcare AP continuum end-to-end -- from invoice capture to payment processing.

The combined platform provides capabilities for: invoice submission, document imaging, automated data extraction, supplier self-service, electronic payments, and image and data archive. Healthcare organizations can deploy the modules together as an integrated, end-to-end solution, or implement individual modules to co-exist with existing systems and processes, anywhere in the AP continuum.

Together or individually, these modules drive improved business outcomes across the healthcare AP lifecycle, including faster cycle times, lower processing costs, reduced paper handling and storage costs, improved access to payables information, and reduced supplier inquiries and call center costs.

All of the components are delivered via a hosted business model, enabling healthcare organizations to avoid the significant capital expense and ongoing maintenance and upgrade costs traditionally associated with on-premise solutions. Additionally, the hosted delivery model provides healthcare organizations with instant access to a highly secure, reliable and scalable PCI-compliant solution.

"eGistics' deep expertise in document management, together with Direct Insite's strong track record in financial supply chain automation, enables us to offer healthcare organizations a compelling solution that will deliver both innovation and operational efficiencies across the healthcare payables lifecycle," commented eGistics Executive Vice President of Sales and Business Development R. Edwin Pearce. "Our combined solution replaces paper-based invoice and payments processing with a faster, more efficient digital platform, saving healthcare organizations significant money while speeding access to critical payables information."

"eGistics and Direct Insite are uniquely positioned to offer a world-class financial supply chain service with a strong emphasis on document management and workflow. The two complementary services allow its users to achieve "Best in Class" returns on their investments according to the latest market research." stated Arnold Leap, Executive Vice President of Sales and Marketing, and CTO, at Direct Insite.

eGistics and Direct Insite will showcase their end-to-end healthcare payables solution at IAPP-TAWPI's Healthcare Payments Automation Summit, September 19-21 at the Boston Sheraton. To schedule a private solution briefing at the event, contact Ed Pearce at epearce@egisticsinc.com.
